Enfield, CT 06083-1308

ON THE COVER:

The LEGO globe is 30" wide and contains 11,760 bricks!

Dear LEGO Mailbag,

I really like to build with LEGO bricks. I have a gazillion LEGO bricks and I make cool stuff all the time. It is more fun than watching TV! I save my money for the big LEGO kits and build the project real fast. Sometimes I don't even eat until it is done! Then I like to make up new things with all the pieces. LEGO toys are the best things ever! When I grow up, I want to be a builder.

I also want to go to LEGOLAND really bad with my sister. How many LEGOLAND parks are there and where are they? Thanks for making LEGO & having the LEGO Club.

David Ammon, age 7, North Carolina

Wow, a gazillion LEGO bricks? That's a lot! But don't forget to eat, or your stomach might start growling and you'll have to go to LEGO Island for some pizza.

Right now, there are 3 LEGOLAND Parks in the world: In Windsor, England; Billund, Denmark and Carlsbad, California. A new park is opening next summer in Günzburg, Germany. Right now there aren't any plans to build more parks. But keep your eye on the LEGO Club Magazine and www.LEGO.com.

(See you next issue in the LEGO Mailbag!)

My son loves LEGO toys and can never get enough! He talks about being a LEGO engineer and designer.

Kathy Beyer, California

You can tell Paul really loves to build. If he's interested in becoming a LEGO Master Builder, he should check out www.lego.com/build for some behind the bricks info from the pros.

Do you have any suggestions for something I could build as a holiday gift for my family or friends?
Ken Nagle, 12, New York

The great thing about building a LEGO model for someone as a gift is that they know you put the time into doing it for them - and that means a lot! You can find ideas for holiday models (like the one pictured) on page 6 and 7 of this magazine.

Why are LEGO mini-figures yellow?

Ummm... they eat too many bananas? No? How about we make them out of lemons? Oh, you don't believe that either? Okay, the truth is that back in 1972 the LEGO Company asked kids what color they thought mini-figures should be and they said yellow. Of course, not all mini-figures are yellow - Martians are green, skeletons are white, roses are red, violets are blue (whoops, got carried away there...)

How many LEGO bricks are made in 24 hours?

We sent Alpha Team agent Dash undercover to find out the answer to this one. He came back with four possibilities. Which do you think is right?

a. 250,000 b. 44 million c. 200 million d. 1 gazillion

If you guessed b. 44 million, you're right! That comes out to about 500 bricks a second!

Jack Stone Saves the Day Once Again! By Connor Frisby, age 6, Oregon

Hi, my name is Jack Stone.  This is a story about how I caught some bank robbers. "Help! Help! The bank is being robbed!"  cried my friend.

I said, "I'd better start making a supersonic police jet to get to the police station."

 The policeman said, "We can't get there in time unless Jack Stone gets here - and quick!"

"Eeeeerrrrrooonnn," went the jet.

"I hope that's Jack Stone landing that jet," said the policeman.

"It IS Jack Stone!" the police cried as I climbed out of the jet.

"I'll make a police van with a net," I said.

"Hopefully, I'll make it in time!"

Then I went to maximum speed to catch the bad guys. I see them in the distance. "I'll use my net to catch them!"

 The bad guys weren't looking where they were going - they were looking at each other! They drove right into the net.

"Hey! What's keeping us still?" the bad guys asked. "Hey, is that Jack Stone?" I turned and said, "It's a wonderful day! Can do... will do... done!"

Jack Stone Saves the Cliff Hanger! By Natalie Glisson, age 13, New Hampshire

 Jack Stone yawned and stretched as he settled down from another busy day of rescuing people. Suddenly, the phone rang. It was the Res-Q Team chief.

"Hi, Chief.  What's up?" Jack said. "Oh, Jack, it's awful," the Chief moaned. He told Jack that a mountain climber had fallen into a chasm, couldn't get out, and was holding on to keep from falling all the way down. Unfortunately, the Res-Q Team couldn't reach him.

"Can do... will do... done!" Jack said as he raced out to get his motorcycle. He gunned the engine and raced to the site. When he reached there, Jack pushed a button and propellers came out of his motorcycle. He maneuvered close to the cliff hanger and offered him a rope. The grateful climber grabbed the rope and Jack pulled him to safety.  Jack Stone saves the day again!

CAN DO... WILL DO... DONE!

Feature Story

It's the Holiday

Miniland lit up at night! Careful you don't hit Santa with those fireworks!

Get out the egg-nog and cookies. These carolers are working up an appetite!

Imagine what it would be like to decorate an entire city for the holidays! That's what happens every year at LEGOLAND® California's Miniland. New mini-figures, lots of lights, and Santa Claus himself help turn it into a holiday wonderland!

About 500 mini-figures are added to the Miniland display for the holidays, including reindeer, elves, carolers, Salvation Army officers, holiday shoppers, and more. Each Miniland area also has a special Santa - Santa kissing Mrs. Claus, Santa on rollerskates, Santa on the beach with his reindeer, Santa fishing, and Santa on a bicycle!

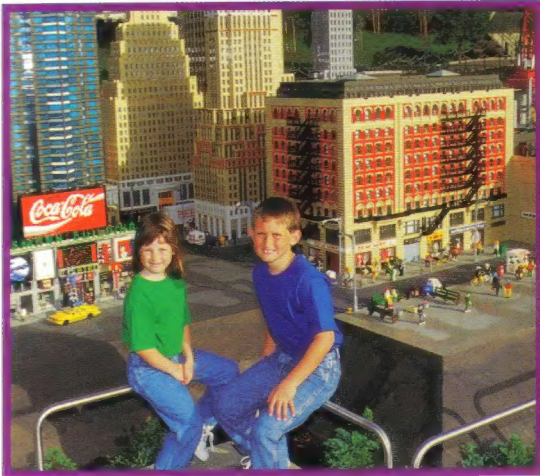

"We also have nine different animated Santas," says Jette Nielsen, the Mayor of Miniland. "We have Santa bull riding, Santa bungee jumping, Santa in his sleigh flying over New York, and so on."

The entrance to LEGOLAND is decorated for the holidays! Remember there's no snow in Southern California!

Ever feel like life has you climbing the walls?

Well, so does this awesome robot — only he can really do it! This wall-crawling wonder made his debut at the LEGO MINDSTORMS™ Mall Tour in 2000. He was so popular that building instructions for him were added to the Ultimate Builders Set.

The wall-climber is just one of the great new robots you can build with this expansion set for the LEGO MINDSTORMS RIS. The Ultimate Builders set makes it possible for you to add pneumatics, an extra motor, and over 300 new LEGO elements to your inventions. It also includes interviews with LEGO Master Builders, so you can get the story behind your favourite robotic creations.

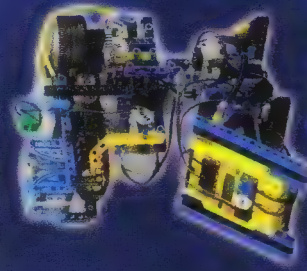

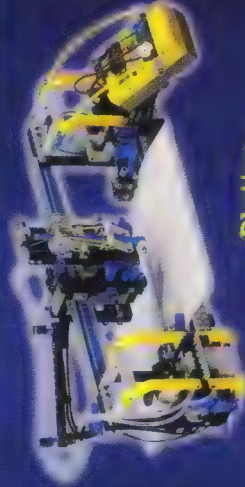

Ultimate Builders Set even makes inventing easier than ever before by including on-screen building instructions for seven cool robots! Unfortunately, you can't disguise a robot as you and send it off to school in the morning – but you can turn one of your robots into a champion science project!

So why start climbing the walls? With RIS and the Ultimate Builders Set, you can let a robot do it for you!

The Ultimate Builders Set is more than the wall climber! Check out these awesome models built with the Ultimate Builders Set...
